SITUATION SUMMARY

Significant Weather

- Fire Weather Watch in effect from Tuesday afternoon through Tuesday evening for portions of El Dorado, Lassen, Modoc, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sierra, and Siskiyou Counties.

Record High Temperatures and Isolated Thunderstorms

- Record high temperatures and isolated thunderstorms are possible through Tuesday for portions of the Eastern Sierra. These storms could be slow-moving and are capable of producing brief heavy downpours and gusty outflow winds. Outside of the storm cores, dry lightning strikes are possible. Thunderstorms should become more widespread by Tuesday. These storms are expected to move slowly and locally heavy downpours could result. Additionally, dry lightning strikes outside of the heavier rain cores could produce new fire starts.
- With summers arrival, though the state remains in the Phase I Alert condition of Seasonal Readiness, as outlined in the State Contingency Plan for Excessive Heat Emergency, State Agencies/Departments are advised to review existing plans, procedures and resources, to facilitate preparedness for and response to possible excessive heat events, and closely monitor the situation and inform Cal OES of any heat related issues or concerns.
- The California State Warning Center continues to monitor the weather statewide for heat or fire weather of concern and state power grid issues, and Cal OES Regions will remain in contact with Operational Areas (Counties) to monitor heat events which may impact local communities, facilities or agencies.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Monsoonal moisture arriving today will bring a threat for thunderstorms to parts of interior northwest California today and Tuesday. The coast will continue to see night and morning clouds and fog with afternoon clearing.

San Francisco Weather:

Very warm to hot conditions will continue for the inland valleys today. However, the coast and coastal valleys will remain seasonably cool. An inland cooling trend will begin on Tuesday with inland temperatures forecast to cool to near normal by midweek. Night and morning clouds will become more widespread inland by midweek. Monsoon moisture flowing in from the southeast will result in some mid and high level clouds through Tuesday morning but this moisture is not expected to produce rainfall.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

Sacramento Weather:

Clouds will spread across the interior of Northern California today and tonight as moisture moves into the area. Showers and thunderstorms will be possible over the mountains today and Tuesday while the valley may see some sprinkles. Temperatures will remain hot today, especially across the northern Sacramento Valley, before gradually cooling off the remainder of the week.

Hanford Weather:

High pressure anchored over the Four Corners Regions will keep above normal temperatures across the central California interior through much of this week. Afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms will be possible over the mountains and desert through Thursday as monsoonal moisture continues over the area.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

It will mostly be clear this week except for some night through morning low clouds and fog near the beaches. Today, there is a slight chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms over the San Gabriel Mountains and Antelope Valley. Above normal temperatures will continue through early this week as well, and then return to near normal later in the week as weak low pressure develops off the West Coast. High pressure may expand west again next weekend bringing another warm up for interior areas.

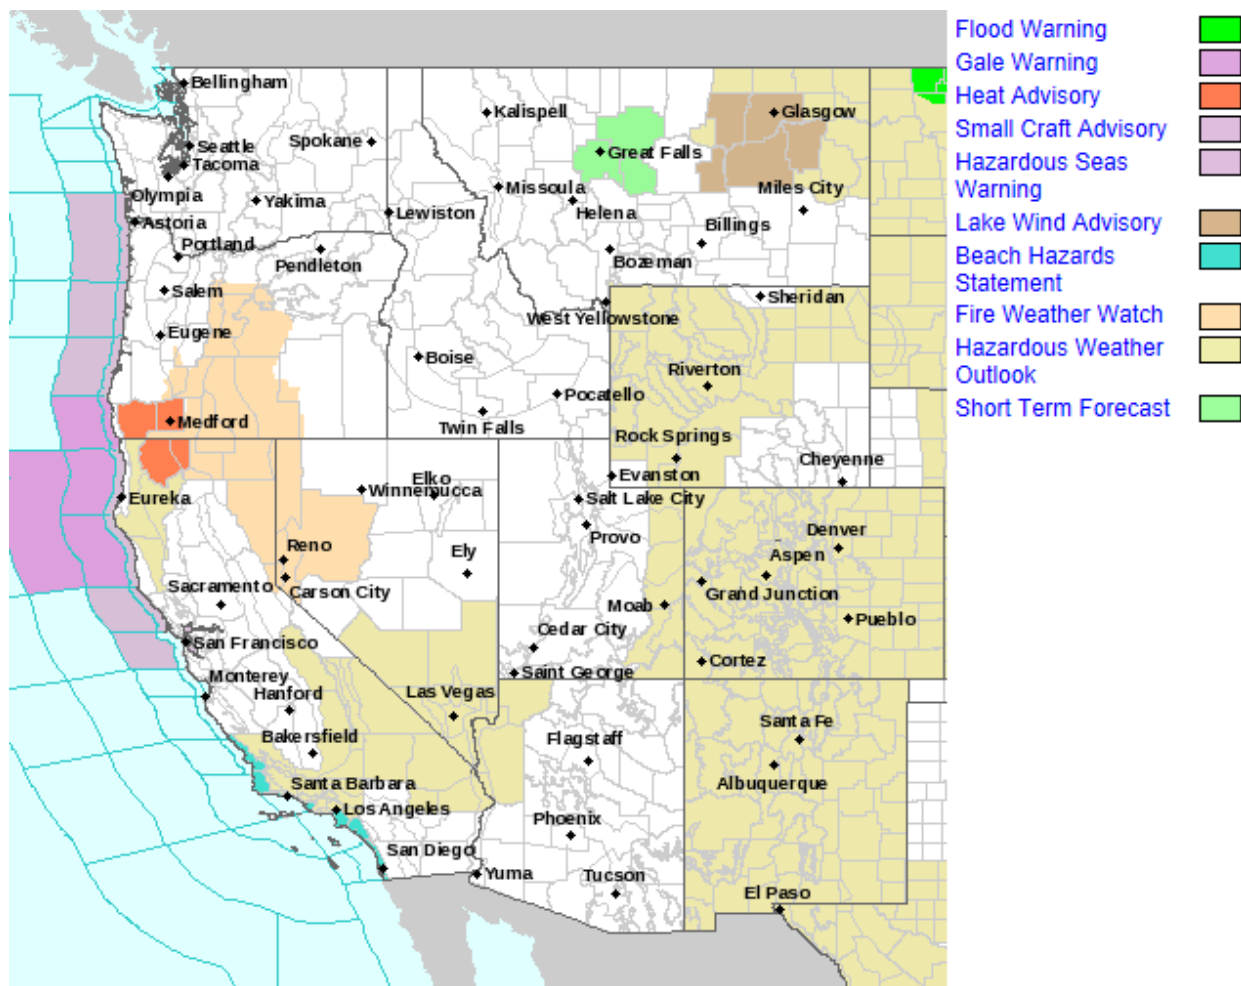

Extreme Southwestern California Including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Far southwestern California will remain on the western fringe of more substantial monsoonal moisture to the east for much of the next week. This should mainly be sufficient for some afternoon clouds over the mountains. The greatest chance for any afternoon and early evening thunderstorms over the mountains and deserts, though small, is around Wednesday. The marine layer with night and morning low clouds and fog will return to coastal areas through midweek then shrink in depth some next weekend as high pressure aloft strengthens.

Southeast California Weather:

Monsoon moisture will persist this week with some day to day fluctuations. Each day will bring varying chances of afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms across the region.

CAL OES ACTIVATIONS

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- The SOC is activated at Level 2 in support of the Drought State of Emergency from 0800-1700 hours daily.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 2 from 0800-1700 Monday through Friday or as needed.
- The Southern REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is Monday – Friday, 0800-1700 hours.

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project. The current State Water Project Allocation is 5%.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.

Situational Summary

The National Weather Service provided the following synopsis for the relationship of Blowing Dust Advisories and the drought conditions in southeast California: Dust storms are common due to increased thunderstorm activity and the winds produced with these storms, during monsoonal flows. The severity of the dust storms could be locally exacerbated by drought conditions. In any event, the public should monitor NWS for any advisories and warnings issued by NWS.

On July 1 2014, administration of the CDPH Drinking Water Program (DWP) transferred to the California State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) Division of Drinking Water. CDPH and the SWRCB entered a Memorandum of Understanding outlining a three-month transition period during which drought response activities and any other emergencies will be coordinated jointly between the two organizations.
